

YEAH! ROCKS, Nashville Music Education Summer Camp
REGISTRATION IS OPEN

We are excited to open our 21st registration for camp and invite young musicians from all backgrounds to join us for an unforgettable summer of music and growth in Nashville.

June 3 - June 7, 9am - 5pm - Wright Middle School
Showcase, Saturday, June 8, 12pm doors - The East Room

YEAH! Rocks is a dynamic and immersive summer camp experience designed to ignite the voices and the musical passions of young people ages 6-17 while fostering personal growth, leadership skills, and community engagement. Through teaching artists led instrument instruction (bass, drums, electronic music, guitar, keys and vocals), collaborative workshops (stage presence, songwriting, entrepreneurship, recording), inclusivity oriented panels about topics that fuel music makers, band management, guest performances and mentorship opportunities. Participants have the opportunity to explore their musical talents, connect with peers, and unleash their valuable voices.

At YEAH!, we believe in the power of music to inspire, empower, and transform lives, and we are committed to providing young people with the resources, support, and opportunities they need to succeed.

Participants will have the opportunity to work with experienced instructors and guest artists, explore different musical genres, and collaborate with their peers to create original music.

Registration for YEAH! Rocks is now open to young musicians ages 6-17. To register or learn more about the program, visit yeahrocks.org. Scholarships and financial assistance are available for qualifying participants.

We believe that every young person deserves access to high-quality music education and community, regardless of their background or financial circumstances. Through YEAH! Rocks, we aim to create an inclusive and supportive community where young musicians can develop their skills, build confidence, and forge lifelong connections."

YEAH! Rocks will take place from June 3 to June 7, 9am to 5pm at Wright Middle School, 180 McCall Street, Nashville. Spaces are limited, so interested participants are encouraged to register early to secure their spot. Now through March 29th, receive a $50 discount!

About YEAH!:

YEAH! (Youth Empowerment through Arts and Humanities) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to empowering youth through transformative arts education. YEAH! prioritizes expanded diversity among its students, teachers, volunteers, staff, and its board. We encourage their participation in our organization and programs, making YEAH! reflective of the community's strength. Our summer camp, weekend, and public school programs support social responsibility and provide young leaders with opportunities to explore their creative passions, develop essential life skills, and connect with their communities through music.

YEAH! traces its roots to 2003, when Middle Tennessee State University student Kelley Anderson organized the first Southern Girls Rock Camp – the world's second females-only rock camp ever. Inspired by her experience, YEAH! expanded into additional music education programs to foster a more egalitarian music community in Tennessee.
